DIXIE PICNIC

"Momma", Aunt Sadie, "Bucky", Aunt Myrtle, and Aunt Anne. Aunt Bertha was busy baking.

My three brothers and I spent many an afternoon on picnics with my Mother Bette's eccentric Southern relatives. Virginia, our great grandmother known as "Momma", Ruby or "Bucky", our grandmother, and her sisters Aunt Anne, Aunt Myrtle, Aunt Sadie, and Aunt Bert were sometimes goofy to us as small children, but Oh Lord could these women cook! As adults, we often howl with laughter as we reminisce about our "Dixie Picnics". We also remember how fine it felt to open up our very own box lunches with a sandwich of home baked Sally Lunn bread and one of Aunt Bertha's Upcakes with enough icing for every bite! Each and every one of these lunches was made by hand from real food and inspired by the love of those crazy women who would do anything to spend time with Bette and her "shweet dahlin chillen". We hope that you feel just as enamored with our food, our family, and the Dixie picnic that we've been baking all morning just for you!
